Caverion provides Managed Services for a university building in Germany

Caverion has signed a Managed Services contract with the Technical University (TU) of Ilmenau in Germany. The scope of the contract includes the disciplines of heating, cooling, air conditioning and sanitation in nine university buildings, including two technology centres with clean rooms. In addition, Caverion is responsible for the operation of elevators and doors as well as the fire alarm system. The value of the contract is not disclosed.

"Our competent team is the key to success. They will provide a high-quality service to the students and the teaching staff. Their commitment will ensure an optimum learning environment," says Werner Kühn, Executive Vice President & CEO at Caverion Germany.

"The management concept of Caverion, which is tailored to our specific needs in every detail, has convinced us," says Antje Kalbe, Head of Facility Management at the TU Ilmenau. "We are looking forward to a successful cooperation."

The TU Ilmenau has about 6,000 registered students. The gross floor area of the buildings included in the scope of services covers approximately 43,000 m².

The contract period started in April 2018.

The client belongs to Caverion's public client segment. Read more about our services for the public sector
